

Special expertise in building & construction

Forum Law can contribute importantly to your project's success. Our solid legal expertise and experience regarding contract, building and development matters is supported by high-level property and contract law credentials.

We help set up working relationships between partners to a project – and also between suppliers and recipients of goods and services. We revise contracts and agreements for buyers and suppliers, resolve building and supply contract disputes and assist in the selling and buying of developments. We work with developers, designers, consultants, suppliers, builders and sub-contractors.

Forum Law's client-tailored services include a secure online reporting system to efficiently track sales and leases in multiple-strata unit projects.

Forum Law can help you with:

- Project structuring and advice and assistance with financing
- Buying or selling commercial property
- Licensing of premises
- Dispute representation, arbitration, mediation and litigation
- Easements and covenants
- Contracts
- Supply agreements
- Intellectual property licensing and protection
- Contract documentation and administration
- Employment issues, workplace health & safety

The practical, personal service you need from your legal professionals

Drawing upon its formal qualifications and solid experience, Forum Law can assist with mediation and negotiation services to resolve disputes with workable outcomes that everyone can live with.

We focus on real results

Together, our high-calibre legal expertise and extensive experience put you in an excellent position to secure the best possible outcome.

We communicate with you

We explain everything to you in clear language – and then keep you fully briefed on every development. As well, we return all your calls promptly!

Our fees are reasonable

We detail our charges to you right at the outset, so there are no surprises – and you always stay in control. What's more, you will find our fees very reasonable.

Our service is personal and friendly

We work hard to build a personal and attentive relationship with each client. Amongst other things, that means you always deal directly with the professional chosen to handle your legal matter.

Working together for a smoother process

It is important that you're able to control your legal proceedings, so we suggest this approach:

- You call us to arrange a convenient, obligation-free initial conversation of up to 30 minutes at Forum Law
- We discuss a pre-costed action plan – which is confirmed by letter
- You authorise Forum Law to proceed as discussed
- We keep you fully informed of your matter's progress at all stages
- Once the matter is concluded, we give you a full report and itemised account
- Forum Law will advise you of any further developments.

Working closely with you, Forum Law will ensure that everything moves forward smoothly, efficiently – and with the least stress to you!
